PENNARD HOUSE
Somerset

AUTUMN WRITERS’ RETREAT WITH SUSAN ELDERKIN
12th - 16th November 2018 at Pennard House, Somerset
FINDING THE PLOT:
Where to look for it, and what to do with it once you’ve found it.

Often we think of plot as something we have to work out separately to everything else – a chain of events that, ideally, will be dramatic and exciting.

In fact, when imposed on a set of characters, a plot, however ingenious or shocking or funny, can quash our characters flat.

Credible, intriguing plots need to start within the hearts and minds of our characters – and proceed with a sort of inevitability given who our characters are. A young man knocks at the door of my character to ask for directions, and causes nothing more than a delay in dinner preparations. But your character might be grieving the son she lost 10 years ago – and she doesn’t want this red-haired stranger at the door to leave.

In other words, it’s not so much what happens, as who it happens to.
WHAT THE RETREAT ENTAILS

During this five-day Autumn Writers’ Retreat, we’ll explore in daily morning workshops how to create character-driven plots and sub-plots – and how to let those plots give our stories real pace and momentum. At least one of our workshops will be inspired by the work of our Wednesday night Guest Speaker – read on to find out who this is. If you already have a writing project on the go (short stories, a novel, a memoir, or something as yet undefined) this retreat offers a brilliant opportunity to make great strides with it. If you don’t yet know what you want to write, you’ll almost certainly see a project taking shape by the end of the week. With a lovely room of your own, all your meals prepared for you, the structure of daily workshops and the support and inspiration of a lively and dedicated group of fellow writers, this is a chance to fully immerse yourself in your writing – and discover your book as you go.
WHERE YOU’LL BE STAYING

Pennard House is a family-run estate offering the perfect mix of luxury and homeliness – the sort of place where you can pad around in your slippers, then share a candle-lit meal around an elegant dining table. The home of Harry and Gi Dearden and their two small children, Charlie and Adalie, the house has been in Harry’s mother’s family since it was built in the 1600s. Bedrooms are beautifully furnished in quintessential English country style, many with lovely views over the gardens and hills beyond. Most are also ensuite.

The Retreat will be organised around daily workshops. These will take place each morning in the Drawing Room. At mealtimes we’ll gather in the Dining Room, where we’ll be served healthy home-cooked food made with delicious local produce. Expect to eat local apples and some amazing cheese made locally. Afternoons are free for you to spend as you wish – you can go for a walk, sequester yourself in your room with your magnum opus, or curl up in a corner of the Conservatory with a good book. We get the full run of the grounds while we’re at Pennard, so bring your waterproofs and a stout pair of walking boots to make the most of it.
HOW THE WORKSHOPS WORK

If you’ve come to any of Susan’s workshops or retreats before, you’ll know the fundamental tenets of her approach: to write in the moment, and share and discuss what you’ve written in the light of that day’s theme. Expect to get used to writing in an unpremeditated way. Expect also to become familiar with aspects of the craft such as dialogue, pace, point of view, and why it’s important to show not tell – and to practice these things as you go. It doesn’t matter whether you write fiction or are more interested in memoir; the same techniques apply to both. Everyone gets the hang of sharing their work very quickly – the supportive, encouraging environment is what makes these weeks so great. You’ll learn from each other, and see your prose rise to a whole new level. You’ll also be fuelled by delicious home-made cakes...

Workshops will take start at 9.30 and go on til lunch (except for the first afternoon, when we’ll plunge in after lunch).

In addition to the workshops, everyone is offered a one-to-one tutorial with Susan one afternoon in which you can discuss your on-going project and any issues that arise with your writing. Guests are invited to send some of their work to Susan prior to the course to form the basis of this tutorial – Susan will email you once you’ve booked to guide you on what to send.

Afternoons will be left largely unstructured, leaving you time to write by yourself, or go for a walk, or hang out and chat over a cup of tea.
WEDNESDAY EVENING GUEST SPEAKER

This is always a highlight of the week at Pennard, and we’re thrilled this time to be joined by one of the finest writers on the literary scene today, Tessa Hadley (right). Author of six novels and three collections of short stories, Tessa Hadley won the Hawthornden Prize for her novel The Past, and has twice been long-listed for the Orange prize. Bristol-born, Tessa Hadley published her first novel at 46. She is now a professor of Creative Writing at Bath Spa. She reviews for the Guardian and the London Review of Books, and her short stories regularly appear in The New Yorker. Celebrated for her intense and concentrated prose style, her psychological astuteness and her precise observation of domestic relationships in Britain over the last 50 years, her fans include Zadie Smith (“few writers give me such consistent pleasure”) – and your tutor for this week’s retreat!
The feel-good factor of the week will be multiplied many times over for those who opt for early-morning yoga sessions with the wonderful Sarah Constantinides (left), an experienced Iyengar teacher who lives and teaches in Somerset. Sarah’s sessions are geared towards students of all standards, from complete beginners to experienced yogis. Sarah brings a buoyancy and playfulness to everything she does, and these sessions are highly recommended both for stretching out the sitting muscles from the previous day and for setting you up mentally for the day ahead. These yoga sessions will be offered only if there’s enough demand, so please let Susan know at the time of booking if you’d like to take part. (Note that yoga is charged separately – for more on costs, see below.)
A ROOM OF YOUR OWN

There are now nine beautiful bedrooms at Pennard House, each with its own distinctive character and atmosphere. Most have a double bed, two have twin beds; most have en suites, two a shared bathroom. All are sole occupancy, unless of course booked by a couple. In addition, there is a self-contained bedroom with full ensuite a short walk away belonging to Harry’s sister, Venetia (this is Carpenter’s Yard in the table below) which will suit those who enjoy more privacy. The total price of your retreat depends on which room you choose – see the table below – and whether or not you opt for yoga. Rooms are allocated on a first-come, first-served basis; please specify a choice of room at the time of booking. For more descriptions and photographs, visit www.pennardhouse.com, or contact Susan (hello@susanelderkin.com) with any questions.
THE COST OF THE RETREAT

The retreat is all-inclusive, except for the yoga and wine/spirits which are pay-as-you-go from the bar (you can run a tab and settle at the end of the week). Prices shown below include:

• Accommodation at Pennard House (or Carpenter’s Yard next door) from Monday night to Thursday night inclusive
• Five 3-hour workshops with Susan
• One 30-minute tutorial with Susan
• All meals, starting with lunch on Monday and finishing with lunch on Friday
• Guest speaker on Wednesday night

GETTING TO PENNARD HOUSE

If you’re coming by train, the nearest station is Castle Cary. Trains to Castle Cary from London Paddington take just under two hours and advance tickets cost as little as £17 each way. (Advance booking highly recommended as they go up quite a lot nearer the time). At the time of sending this out, the best trains to catch are the 10.33am on the Monday (arriving 12.17), returning on Friday at 14.24 (arriving 16.21). If you travel on these trains, lifts to and from the station can be arranged; otherwise a taxi will cost around £15.

If you’re coming by car, East Pennard is about 2.5 hours from London, an hour’s drive from Bristol, and an hour and twenty from Exeter. Let Susan know if you’re able to take passengers. You can download a pdf giving directions here: Driving Directions to Pennard House.

The address is: Pennard House, East Pennard, Shepton Mallet, Somerset BA4 6TP.

Susan Elderkin (left) is the author of two critically-acclaimed novels, Sunset over Chocolate Mountains, which was awarded a Betty Trask prize, and The Voices, which was shortlisted for the Ondaatje Prize. In 2003, she was listed by Granta magazine as one of Britain’s 20 best writers under 40. Her most recent two books, co-authored with her friend Ella Berthoud, are The Novel Cure: An A-Z of Literary Remedies, which is published in over 20 countries around the world, and The Story Cure: Books to Make Kids Happy, Healthy and Wise. Herself a graduate of the MA in Creative Writing at the University of East Anglia, she has taught on some of the country’s top MA courses, including Birkbeck, Goldsmith’s, City University and Manchester University. She’s also taught a lot of Arvon courses. She has run her own workshops and retreats since 2006, and at Pennard House for the last five years. Having living in the States for most of the last 10 years, Susan recently relocated to Somerset with her husband and son, where she spends a lot of time lying in a hammock and writing lists.
Previous attendees on Susan’s courses include Annabel Leventon, whose memoir The Real Rock Follies was published in 2017; Gill Oliver, whose novel A Backward Glance was published in 2016; William Davidson, recent winner of The Puffin Review’s Fairytale Competition; Sarah Leipciger, whose novel The Mountains Can Wait was published in 2015; Peggy Riley, whose novel Amity & Sorrow was published in 2013; and Ashley Dartnell, whose memoir about growing up in Iran, Farangi Girl, was published in 2011.

TESTIMONIALS:

“Before I attended Susan’s writing workshops I had heard from several people how wonderful they were. I now know why she has such a great reputation. Her teaching and leading of the group enable one to learn while having fun. An inspiration.” Helen

“Thank you so much for this inspirational week. I finally picked up my novel again after six years of delay tactics. I was so nervous about attending as I had convinced myself that I wouldn’t even be able to write my name, let alone anything else. I really appreciated her gentle, persuasive approach.” Sarah

“A total inspiration. I am now starting my day with an hour’s writing, back in the habit again. I always learn so much about myself and about the process of writing, felt safe in the group. I don’t know how she creates the environment we work in, but she does it every time.” Annabel

“Really focussed and valuable.” Anne

“Brilliant. I always feel energized afterwards.” Tim

“I so enjoyed it. We were buzzing with ideas on the way home. There was a lovely, supportive atmosphere and we learnt lots.” Juliet
TO BOOK

To reserve a place on the November retreat, email Susan at hello@susanelderkin.com, specifying which room/price bracket you prefer. The number of spaces is limited and bookings are taken on a first-come first-served basis. To secure a place, a 50% deposit is required at the time of booking, with the remainder due two weeks before the course. If for some reason you need to cancel, Susan will do her best to find a replacement, but payments are non-refundable if your place is not filled.

We look forward to welcoming you to Pennard!
